Gunnar and Toby,
Heather has done quite a bit of research on economics and cannot be here this afternoon. If you can show up at 11 instead of 1:30 we could talk about economics with her present. Will that work? We are on the 5th floor to the south of the elevators.

planning meeting today

Hi folks:

My understanding is that the "Economics" component of the Bristol Bay analysis planning meeting today is scheduled to start at 1:30 in the EPA offices in the "new" federal building (which was indeed "new" when I arrived at ISER in 1981 at the offices at 707 A Street).

My plan is to arrive about 1:15. However, my schedule is completely flexible today so if for any reason you'd like me to come earlier I could do so. You can reach me by e-mail in the morning or by cell phone Ex. 6 - Personal Privacy any time.

The "Economics" group had a phone meeting on Monday and discussed a general plan for how we proposed to carry out our analysis. I'll bring a rough draft outline of that plan based on my notes from that meeting. John Duffield may also bring notes or an outline.

John--If you get this message and would like to get together earlier to coordinate / combine our notes / outlines my schedule is open and I could meet with you.

I have a brief powerpoint which I put together last year summarizing the economic significance of Bristol Bay's COMMERCIAL salmon fishery (only one part of salmon resource's economic significance). If there is interest I could show that during our meeting--it would only take about 5 minutes.
